BUSINESS IS CROOKED IN CUBA.

Reports received from Cuba are not to the credit of the United States. Misadministration of public affairs is charged against some of those who have been placed in charge in that un fortunate island to execute the trust there is upon our people, while a stable government is being formed by the people of that country. The trust imposed by self action by the United States to relieve the Cubans from the cruel rule of Spain is being abused by dishonest men, who have appropriated public funds, the property of the people of Cuba.

It is reported that large sums have been appropriated from the postal de partment by those in charge of it, and corruption is known to exist in other, if not in all, departments of the public service in the island. There should be no surprise to people who are informed upon the administration of govern ment business at home when it is learned there is corruption abroad in business under the direction and charge of the Washington administra tion.

There is not a person whose infor mation is equal to the times who is not aware that dishonesty pervades all departments of the public service in high places in the ministerial and legislative departments at Washing ton. The only question there is that receives attention is the mode neces sary to acquire the property of the people under forms of law to protect the villains engaged in the work against service in the jails and peni tentiaries of the country.

When these conditions are in high places, should there be any surprise when they are discovered in outlying places, where public funds are passing through the hands of the servants of the government. It is said the moneys appropriated are the property of Cuba, which is true, and for that reason it is more dishonest to appropriate the moneys than it would be were the moneys the property of the United States. Were the moneys taken the property of the people of the United States, the theft would not include a double breach of trust, as the appropria tion of the moneys of Cuba includes. The appropriation of Cuban moneys include a breach of trust against the government of the United States, and also a breach of that high trust the people of the United States have taken upon them in the interest of an op pressed people, who are at this time powerless to protect themselves against dishonesty by United States govern ment officials.

Dishonesty is the rule, integrity the exception to the administration. The avaricious have succeeded to a control of government affairs, who direct them for their uses and purposes. The chief methods for doing the dishonest work there is everywhere present is by appropriation of public moneys in large sums to aid trusts by high prices paid for government supplies, and by a refusal to furnish relief against the dishonest work of trusts, who take the money and earnings of the people in a more direct form through high prices paid to trusts for the necessities of life.

The ruling passion of those who direct public affairs is to take dishonestly from the people their earn ings. The consideration there is for the dishonest work of those in power will be the aid furnished by the trusts to continue those in power who aid the trusts to steal the earnings and prop erty of the people. It is the purpose of these villains to keep the people between the upper and nether mil stones and grind their substance from them through the means of oppression, applied in the form of trusts and ap propriations to trusts.

When the methods of dishonesty at Washington are reviewed, it should be expected that corruption in the public service in all of its departments would be the rule. It is not a question for the people of the United States to settle as they would a domestic matter exclusively their own, as we stand be fore the world a trustee of the rights of others, and a discriminating world will sit in judgment rightfully upon our work, to determine upon the jus tice and uprightness of our work while executing the trust we voluntarily assumed to relieve others from oppres sion. Our position in Cuba is pre eminently the place where integrity is required in all there is undertaken and provided for the people of Cuba by the people of the United States.

office that confirms the report. What ever may be the result of the long con tinued efforts of the Boers to reduce the town and the stubborn defense made for the place, it will be recorded in the annals of South Africa as the most persistent effort in the Boer war. There is present the will power of the Dutch and the death struggle deter mination of the Briton and Celt in op position, which make conditions all they are in a war sense. The war has vindicated the character of the Boer for ability for continued assault while the Briton and the Celt have con firmed their staying powers under the most adverse circumstances. The Boer may lose because of superior force applied to him, but his character as a man and fighter will not suffer. The men engaged on both sides will not consent to be slaves under any con dition of circumstances. Misgovern ment may come and oppression may follow, arising out of relations they may not for a time be able to control, which their class of men will sustain with that fortitude which is ever a part of the make up of brave men but it will be well for the government there is over the Boer to recognize the character of the men which will be done, in way that will lead them to forget and for give if it is possible to the Boer nature.

There is not a people or a govern ment on the earth who are better in formed upon the character of the peo ple they will have to govern or who will recognize the necessity for con ciliation and justice to the Boers more quickly than the British. They know the character and make up of the Dutch and it will be kept in view in the future with reference to con tinued peace in South Africa. The Burgers will not permit any foolishness as they will submit to the British through superior force, which will be yielding to power without any break ing down of the spirit that has sus tained an honorable and valiant cause for independence and freedom under a government of their own providing. It will be the purpose of England, if wisdom prevails, to make the Boer feel that he has lost nothing in freedom or good government, which may in time overcome his desire for independence. The fact will be admitted by the British Parliament that it is dealing with men who know their rights, who are intelligent and who are the descend ents of men who have a history in the affairs of men and nations.

They were given a hearty welcome and treated in a hospitable manner all day by their entertainers.

The two principal events of the day were a banquet and a reception. The former was tendered in the parlors of the Congregational church. Thirty-eight sat down to a delicious repast. Toasts were proposed and responded to at the conclusion of the feasting.

The reception was a brilliant event, as those things go. There were pretty gowns worn by the ladies and the downy cheeks of the young men were made bare of the faintest suspicion of fuzz. Altogether it was a visit which our friends from the Comstock will long cherish in pleasant memory.

Among those who composed the party of visitors were:

Misses Lulu Ballard, Alice Barclay, Martha Brady, Jeanette Cameron, Ella Cody, Rose Desmond, Grace Cahill, Lillian Godfrey, Irene Farrington, Laura McDermott and Nellie Mahoney. Messrs. Harry Hunter, Will Pearson, Harry Price, John Dewar and Hugh O'Neill.

Last Night's Performance.

Another large audience witnessed the presentation of "Held by the Enemy" by the Dailey company, and judging from intermingled applause and laughter, thoroughly enjoyed it. The cast found the same pleasing allotments that has established this Nevada boy's company favorites on their initial visit. It is their careful, conscientious work and thorough familiarity with the text and business that won for them such instant and lasting favor.

At the matinee to-day "East Lynne" will be given, with Miss Nannary in a favorite role, that of Lady Isabella.

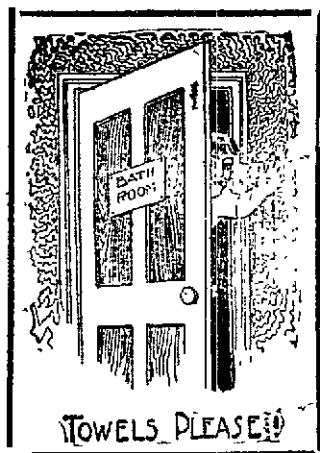

To-night will close the engagement with a presentation of Boucicault's brightest creation, "Arr-a-Poge," with Miss Nannary as Arra and Mr. Dailey as Shaun the Post. The piece is an Irish comedy drama, covering incidents in Robert Emmett's time. In this the author has centered a fund of beautiful speeches that are akin to poetry and a wealth of Irish humor. The action is spirited and never fails to find favor. Judging from the advance sale the capacity of the opera house will be tested.

A Financial Transaction.

Yesterday a countrywoman came to Reno with "garden eggs" for market. After disposing of the bulk of her wares she approached the Chinese cook at the Arcade restaurant and offered three dozen eggs for sale at fifteen cents a dozen. The Celestial refused to pay this sum, but offered four bits for the entire lot.

The countrywoman refused to be beat down in her price and stuck out for the amount asked, but the almond-eyed son of the flowery kingdom was obstinate. Finally another emigrant from Cathay tipped his fellow-countryman the wink and the trade was consummated.

After the worthy woman marched out with her forty-five cents the cook explained to a friend how easily he could have made a nickel.

ANOTHER SMELTER

Reno Has an Opportunity to Gain an Important Industry.

The "mining boom," which was the subject of so much sarcasm on the part of local siliarians and moss backs, has brought a couple of smelter men to Reno. They are quietly working up a proposition which, if successful, will greatly benefit this city and county. These gentlemen, who are avoiding newspaper publicity at this stage of the game, have a proposition something of this sort:

They wish to erect an eighty-ton smelter near Reno at a cost of about $15,000. Of this sum they will offer $7,000 worth of stock to local mining and business men, and they will put up the balance. The promoters will handle the metallurgical end of the proposition, while the entire business management will rest in the other stockholders.

The smelter will be especially adaptable to working copper ores although gold and silver rock will also be handled. It is proposed to erect a fire stamp mill for treating free milling rock.

In a few days the promoters will place their project before the people and offer stock for sale. If speedy action is taken in the matter the smelter will be in operation by September.

President Burton of the Reno Reduction works informed a reporter yesterday that he would soon be ready to handle custom ores in quantity. The new smelter will be used principally for treating Oreaus rock while the other water-jacket will be thoroughly over-hauled and put in shape for custom work. The stamp mill and the electrolytic precipitation plant will also be used for custom work.

Altogether it looks as though there was really something after all in this "mining boom" that the JOURNAL has been dinnning into the ears of its readers.

A Solid Silver Letter.

The following letter, engraved on a solid silver medal five inches in circumference, was mailed in Reno last Thursday night. On one side, around a 15-cent U. S. stamp in the center, was:

"To the Presidents of the Boer Republic, Pretoria, South Africa—From the United Socialists of Reno, Nevada, U. S. A."

On the obverse side:

"Greetings! While we admire the courageous struggle you are making for liberty against such fearful odds, we implore you to desist from gun-fighting, to save the lives of your noble yeomen (as well as those of the comparatively innocent soldiers of your antagonists), and within five years the United Socialists of the world will give you, without bloodshed, the independence you so richly deserve. Yours for progress, UNITED SOCIALISTS."

Will Cut the Ledge.

Sunday a week will be a momentous day for Messrs. Miller, Stoddard, Gooding and Boney. At the rate the tunnel is progressing on their Bonanza mine the ledge will be tapped that day. If it continues to hold the values it shows on the surface this will be one of the biggest silver propositions in Nevada.

Ready to Begin.

Training for the relay race with the Capitol city wheelmen in Sacramento July 4th, will begin at once. Last evening a meeting of those who will try for places was held in the wheelmen's rooms. About twenty-five riders signified their intention to try for places on the team.

Incendiary as Usual.

Last night was an ideal one for the fire bug to operate in. He did not neglect the opportunity furnished by a cloudy, moonless night and a heavy wind. About 8 o'clock the fire bell sounded. A quick run was made to the corner of Sixth and Virginia streets. The fire was in the rear of the premises owned by Mrs. Bobo. There was little difficulty putting the fire out as it had been held down by the use of a garden hose. Discovery of the blaze before it had gained headway is all that prevented a most disastrous fire as the wind was blowing in the direction of a nest of dwellings and stables. The fire was undoubtedly incendiary. Suspicion points to the same pair of hoodlums, one of whom was seen in the vicinity just before the alarm was turned in.

Another Attempt.

At 10:30 last night another incendiary attempt was made. This time the lumber shed of the N-C-O. was fired. Night watchman Nash discovered the blaze in time to extinguish it without turning in an alarm. The fire was set in a bundle of rags soaked in turpentine.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

CARSON, Nev., May 15.

The forecast of the past week was moderately warm and generally cloudy, the middle portion windy and showery, and the latter part clear, warm and sunny. During Thursday night considerable snow fell on the mountains in the western part of the State, averaging six inches at Virginia City and seven inches at Pine Grove.

Corn, potatoes and gardens are being planted; in some of the western districts the early planted potatoes are up and growing nicely. Seeding is about over in the eastern section, and nearing completion in the central and northern sections. Alfalfa is reported in fine condition and making rapid and satisfactory growth; in most localities it is about knee-high.
